

Living room G White/Walnut

STRING FURNITURE

String® System Living room G in white and walnut brings open shelves, tilted magazine shelves and cabinets together in a larger living room storage combination. It offers space for a varied collection, with different elements for the things you want to display and the belongings you prefer to store away. Books, favourite objects and magazines each have a place within the arrangement.

Use the open shelves to build a personal display around reading and collected pieces. The tilted shelves keep magazines visible, making it easy to choose an issue and return it afterwards. Cabinets provide concealed storage for the other items that belong in the living room, helping the open areas remain focused on the things you enjoy seeing.

The larger format gives these storage functions room to work together in one composition. You can group books, give an individual object space, and keep less decorative belongings behind cabinet doors. With a balance of open display and closed storage, this shelving combination supports both a personal collection and the practical needs of everyday living.
